BitSight TPRM Subscriptions Explained

Total Risk Monitoring Vs. Risk Monitoring

BitSight is committed to helping customers maintain high performing third-party risk programs – from onboarding to continuous monitoring to re-assessments - throughout the vendor lifecycle. To help our customers achieve their unique objectives, we built a flexible subscription model to ensure customers can access the right amount of visibility for each of their third-parties, in a cost effective way.

TOTAL RISK MONITORING

Enables you to track critical third parties (vendors, prospects, competitors) without losing visibility into critical risk areas. With the speed & complexity of emerging cyber risks, Total Risk Monitoring is essential to identifying and reducing risk across the business ecosystem.

Whether you're focused on proactively improving the performance of your third-parties' security controls, or managing responses to critical vulnerabilities and other threats, Total Risk Monitoring can help you prioritize and respond quickly.

RISK MONITORING

Provides you with critical updates on the security posture of vendors with lower inherent risk, including rating-level visibility for third-parties that don't require strenuous oversight or high-touch risk management.

Risk Monitoring ensures that you have a full picture of your vendors' security posture for those vendors that may be "less critical", but could require more scrutiny at a moment's notice. Coupling Risk Monitoring with Total Risk Monitoring subscriptions is a more cost effective approach to gain full visibility into your vendor risk.

FLEXIBLE SUBSCRIPTIONS

To encourage our customers to attain a broader scope of their third-party vendor risk, our flexible subscription model is a cost-effective option to execute on program goals. Easily swap subscriptions back and forth throughout the length of your contract, as your business' needs change. Swapping subscription types is beneficial when you're alerted of vendor issues that may prompt a more diligent eye on their security controls. On the flip side, it allows you to remove a vendor from critical observation if you deem them as being less critical or needing less observation at any given time.
